

Life-changing: Iris the dog approves of owner Emily Mayer's dental work

A whole new set of teeth for just £20,000

EMILY Mayer is one of the many British dental tourists to have travelled to Hungary.

Having suffered from severe gum disease for several years, Emily, 46, had lost several teeth and many others were loose.

Despite regular trips to her dentist in Britain, Emily's teeth continued to deteriorate.

But the solution came when surfing online, she found details of smilesavershungary.co.uk. Two weeks later, she flew to Budapest for an initial appointment before having all her teeth removed.

Over the next six months, Emily, an artist from Kenninghall, Norfolk, had all her teeth replaced with implants. The total cost was about £20,000 – about a third of what it would have been in the UK.

Emily says: 'I was so conscious of the state of my teeth. Having this treatment has changed my life.'

'Not only did the clinic take really good care of me, but I have also saved a huge amount of money.'
